CRUIKSHANK, GEORGE. [COMBE, WILLIAM.]

The Life of Napoleon. 1817.

CONDITION: 8°, full crimson crushed levant morocco, gilt back and sides, edges gilt on the rough, by Lloyd, Wallis, and Lloyd.

SECOND EDITION.

COLLATION: Identical with preceding description, except date on title, a slightly different arrangement of the plates, and p. 19 is correctly numbered.

Copies of the 1817 edition with colored plates appear to be very rare. It is now generally conceded that Combe had little or nothing to do with the authorship of this work.

list of plates, but they consist of pictorial title-page, and face pp. 1, 13, 20, 80, 85, 143, 148, 166, 178, 182, and 217.

Volume II. Half-title, [A1] (verso quotation), pp. [i]-[ii]; Title, German Popular Stories, || Translated from the || Kinder und Haus Märchen. || Collected By || M. M. Grimm. || From Oral Tradition. || Vol. II. || [Etched vignette signed by Cruikshank.] || James Robins & C^o London. || And || Joseph Robins Jun^r & C^o Dublin. || MDCCCXXVI; Advertisement, [A2], pp. [iii]-iv; Text, B1-M2, pp. [1]-244; "Notes," [M3]-[M8], in twelves, pp. [245]-256; Translator's note, [M9] (verso imprint and printer's device), one leaf without pagination.

ILLUSTRATIONS: Pictorial title-page and nine etchings without inscriptions, but signed by Cruikshank. There is no list of plates, but they consist of pictorial title-page, and face pp. 7, 29, 47, 60, 66, 81, 106, 143, and 171.

The engraved title-page of volume one has the original error of omitting the umlaut over the "a" in "Märchen"; the story entitled "The Travelling Musicians," in volume one, lacks the sub-title which was added in the second issue; and what is most unusual is that the plates of the first volume are etched in brown ink. It is known that very few copies of the first edition had the plates so made.

The first edition of Part I was almost immediately exhausted, and a second was issued in August. Both editions were published in brown paper wrappers, the only difference being that the front cover of the second edition has the words "Second Edition," and the letter-press of the first edition is on tinted paper. A third edition appeared the same year.

There were two issues of Part II, which may be distinguished by the last words of p. 5; in the first issue it ends with the words "and did"; in the second, with the words "ran out."

FIRST EDITION.

COLLATION: Title as above, one leaf (verso blank); Text consists of sundry extracts from works cited on title, each illustrated with an etching. Pagination is as follows: Pages 75-76; 77-78; 51-52; 53-54; 55-56; 57-58; 59-60; 61-62; 63-64; 65-66; 67-68; 69-70; 71-[72]; 73-74. Plates are fourteen in number, designed, etched, and signed by George Cruikshank. These etchings originally appeared in Roscoe's Novelist's Library in 1831-1832. This selection of illustrated extracts appears to be unnoticed by Cruikshank's bibliographers. The last cover contains advertisement of Cruikshank's works, in which this is listed with others. Appears to have been issued as a prospectus of these works as illustrated by Cruikshank.

1832, with the exception of the year 1830. A fifth part was intended, and in 1834 a single plate was published, but with it the work ceased. Cruikshank appears to have foreshadowed the automobile in his etching "A Fiery Steed," in Part II.

The Library of William Andrews Clark, Jr.

ILLUSTRATIONS: Frontispiece and twenty-three plates, all of which are colored, and bear the initials of Cruikshank, "G. C^k." The plates are twenty-four in number, being designated as the frontispiece, and one to twenty-three being so numbered in the upper right hand corner. The five woodcuts comprise the vignette on the title (which is repeated on p. 28), and one each on pp. 40, 53, and 72 respectively. This copy is extra-illustrated by the insertion of India-proofs of plates one to twenty-three; one full-page proof containing the vignettes that appear on pp. 53 and 72; the insertion of three small proofs of the vignettes of pp. 40, 53, and 72; and on p. 1 is inserted a small vignette proof of a Punch and Judy show from "Points of Humour," Part II, p. 4.

Colored copies when genuine have the plates on a special hard vellum-like Whatman paper, which is the feature of these herein described. Eighteen copies with colored plates were issued, but the number of those in which the plates are found in both states is a very small one. This earliest edition appears to be unnoticed by Reid. The work was written by John Payne Collier, the well-known Shakespearean critic and editor.

Usually associated with Dickens, whose sole connection is that he had planned to write the work and subsequently did not do so. It was eventually written by Mogridge, “Old Humphrey.” There are nine plates and vignettes by Cruikshank. With the exception of the frontispiece and vignette on title-page, which were designed for the present book, the plates have been used before in other works. The plates and vignettes appear on pp. 66, 129, 147, 207, 230, 280, and 283.

The || Loving Ballad || Of || Lord Bateman. || Illustrated By ||

And Mustapha Syried, Constantinople. || MDCCCXXXIX.

The Library of William Andrews Clark, Jr.

CONDITION: 16°, original green limp cloth, with gilt pictorial design on front cover by George Cruikshank.

FIRST EDITION, first issue.

COLLATION: Half-title, [A1] (verso blank), pp. [i]-[ii]; Title as above, [A2] (verso imprint), pp. [iii]-[iv]; "Warning to the Public," [A3]-[A4] (verso blank), pp. [v]-[viii]; Text, [A5]-[B7] (verso blank), pp. [9]-[30]; Notes, [B8]-[C4], ending with imprint, pp. [31]-40; Book advertisements, [C5]-[C8], without pagination.

ILLUSTRATIONS: Eleven plates, designed, etched, and signed by George Cruikshank, consisting of frontispiece, and plates, numbered 2-11, facing pp. 11, 13, 15, 17, 19, 21, 23, 25, 27, and 29; engraved plate of music faces p. viii; on p. vii is a facsimile of the autograph signature of George Cruikshank.

Of this book there are two issues. In the first the page numbers are in the middle of the page, excepting those of the preface and of the notes which are in the upper outer corners; in the second and later issues they occupy the usual position on the page. On p. 13, "wine" is spelled correctly.

Some difference of opinion exists regarding the authorship of this work. It has been ascribed to Cruikshank, Dickens, and to Thackeray by their respective admirers, although the probability would appear to be vested in Dickens, more especially as regards the serio-comic notes and the introduction.

CRUIKSHANK, GEORGE.

Original Drawings.

CONDITION: Folio, full green crushed levant morocco, gilt back and inside borders, edges gilt, by Rivière.

A collection of Cruikshank's first sketches for various works, drawn as the ideas came to him, using the first material at hand, such as letter covers, letters received by him, and odd scraps of paper.

The subjects of the drawings, about ninety in number, are of a character somewhat similar to those in “Scraps and Sketches,” the smaller illustrations in the “Comic Almanack,” the woodcuts in the “Omni-bus,” “Table Book,” etc. Included among the illustrations are sketches for the following: “Great Exhibition”; Unpublished sketch for “The

L. S., addressed to G. C. K., asking for paper "for your plates of the Tower"; Sketch for "A Little Drop, a Little Drop More, a Drop too Much"; Unpublished sketch for "Don Quixote." His characteristic autographic signature occurs among these scraps nineteen times.

FIRST EDITION, first issue.

COLLATION: Half-title, [a1] (verso blank); Engraved title-page with date 1836, one leaf (verso blank); Title as above, [a2] (verso imprint); Preface, [b1]-[b2] (verso blank), pp. [i]-[iv]; Contents, [c1], pp. [vii]-viii; Half-title, "The Streets By Morning," B1 (verso blank), pp. [1]-[2]; Text, B2-[R9] (verso blank), ending with imprint, in twelves, pp. [3]-[378]; Advertisements, "Mr. Macrone's Select List," dated December, 1836, ten leaves.

ERRORS IN PAGINATION: Page 25 is misprinted 52; 32 is 23; 60 is unnumbered; 62 is 46.

There are ten plates by Cruikshank including the frontispiece and engraved title-page.

The frontispiece was repeated, the duplicate facing p. 216, but is lacking in the present copy, as are also two plates, "Last Cab Driver" and "May-Day In The Evening." At p. 216 should have been inserted the plate "Mr. Minns and His Cousin," instead of facing p. 263. The title-page bears the date 1837, while the engraved title-page is dated 1836. This series is made up of seventeen articles previously published in magazines, and three others specially written for it. The first issue of the second series may be distinguished by the numerous printer's errors, and is without the list of illustrations on p. viii. On the second page of advertisements appears the advertisement of "Gabriel Varden, By Boz"; this title later became "Barnaby Rudge."

There are two issues of the first edition, and in the earlier, the last preliminary page is numbered xvi. A preliminary chapter, pp. v-xvi was canceled, after the sheets were partly printed, and the substituted chapter occupies only half the space. Slater states that the suppressed chapter will be found in the opening pages of Volume II of later issues of the same edition, but this statement is questioned by Eckel. The canceled chapter will be found in Forster's "Life of Charles Dickens."

original copy of "Is She His Wife?" in the Boston fire of 1879. The farce was written by Mark Lemon to aid in raising funds for the "Guild of Literature and Art," but was so altered by Dickens during its rehearsals that it is considered more the work of Dickens than that of the editor of Punch. It was first produced at Devonshire House, May 27, 1851. Dickens, Lemon, and Wilkie Collins were in the original cast. Pailthorpe etched a frontispiece for the play and it is inserted in some copies, but is not in the present.
